REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art do not teach an editing system for encoding a plurality of images or sounds and multiplexing plural encoded data so as to produce recording data which is recorded in a recording medium, said editing system comprising a combination of :

- a system controller;

- a single storage unit having a plurality of input ports and at least one output port;

- a plurality of encoding devices for encoding inputted images or sounds, and for successively storing encoded data in a recording area of the single storage unit specified by the system controller through said input ports and for outputting the a data amount of the encoded data for every predetermined unit to the system controller; and

- a multiplexing unit for reading the encoded data to be multiplexed from the single storage unit through the output port so as to produce the multiplexed data, and for storing the multiplexed data in a predetermined recording area of the single storage unit through one of the input ports as the recording data;

wherein when each of the plurality of encoding devices receives an encode list from the system controller, then each of the plurality of encoding devices requires address information of a recording area of a single storage unit , and thereby the system controller specifies the recording area for each of the plurality of encoding devices and sends information of the specified recording area for each of the plurality of encoding devices as being recited in claim 1.
